Hidden Costs of Excessive Ordering

- Excessive spending and ordering has an impact on the cashflow and growth of the company.
- Wastes time and negatively impacts public perception of the company.

Assigning New Uniforms

- Delays or mistakes in assigning uniforms leave officers unable to perform duties.
- Can result in contract breaches and the need for client credit notes.

Operational Inefficiencies

- Terminated employees don't always return issued uniforms.
- Proper records of what has been issued are not always maintained.

Streamlined Uniform Assignment

- Tracks uniforms from the warehouse to the branch, each officer, and back again.
- Ensures officers have the uniforms they need, reducing operational risks.

Cost Control and Accountability

- Reduces lost or stolen items, saving the company money.
- Improved control over the issuing and returning of uniforms.
- Ensures employees can only return uniform items issued to them.
- Minimises over- or under-purchasing by comprehensively tracking your organisation's equipment.

Enhanced Efficiency

- Uniform returns are integrated into the employee offboarding process, reducing risks and ensuring compliance.
